

Testing times

IT testing is being compromised because of the lack of internal resources and a committed budget. According to LogicaCMG, if firms fail to test their software they risk losing the quality of both their software and hardware implementations.